What does it mean to domesticate a foreign judgment?

Foreign means from another jurisdiction, usually another state. In order to register or enforce a foreign decree in Georgia, the decree must be domesticated. Different procedures are necessary depending on the reasons you need your Order domesticated.

An Order must be domesticated when the obligee (person paying support) relocates to another state and you want to enforce your right to regular support payments as provided in your original Order. For example, you were divorced in Alabama, and the Alabama decree orders your spouse to pay $400 per month child support. You and your ex-spouse have moved separately to Georgia, and your ex stopped making payments. The Alabama divorce decree must be domesticated before the Georgia Courts will recognize and enforce your Alabama Order.

Where should I go for help?

It is wise to obtain the assistance of an attorney who is familiar with family law issues when you need to domesticate a foreign judgment. If the paperwork you file is not appropriate and/or not complete, it may have a negative effect on your rights.

Where can I find more information?

Georgia has adopted the Uniform Enforcement of Foreign Judgment Act (O.C.G.A. § 9-12-130 et. seq.), the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act (O.C.G.A. § 19-11-100 et. seq.), and the Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act (O.C.G.A. § 19-9-40 et. seq.). These laws may affect your foreign judgment. You may read the Georgia Code online at:
